Open-ended Candidate Answers

District 27 State Senator Candidates

---

Kenneth B. Lee (R)

Q2: Public dollars: Public dollars should be for educating the student and not only for public schools, especially failing ones.

District 27 State Delegate Candidates

Mark N. Fisher (R)

Q1: Aid to nonpublic schools: I believe that money for K -12 education should follow the child to public, independent, parochial or charter school of their choice.

Q2: Public dollars: I believe that tax dollars should follow the student, not the school. Monopolies are not good. It's time to break-up the public educational monopoly in Maryland. It's time for Educational Freedom!

Q3: Educational scholarships: Absolutely!

Q4: BOOST: I would like to see the BOOST Scholarship Program expanded to include as many students as practicable.

Q5: Capital dollars: Every public, charter, independent & parochial school in Maryland should have at least one School Resource Officer. The additional security measures should be paid by using state tax dollars.

Kevin D. Merillat (R)

Q1: Aid to nonpublic schools: Competition is needed to raise the bar for education in our state.

Q2: Public dollars: Public dollars are for the public, and it's that person's choice whether they go to private or public school.

Q4: BOOST: Opportunity for success needs to be provided to all, it's a person's choice if they choose to take advantage of it.

Gubernatorial Candidates

Peter Franchot (D)

Q1: Nonpublic school aid: I will increase funding in our grant programs and award funding to organizations that provide grassroots support for the communities they serve. Preference will always be given to public schools and state programs. However, if a nonpublic school demonstrates that they are philanthropically engaged in their communities, do not discriminate against any students, and are in need of financial assistance, I am willing to award funding on a case-by-case basis.

Q2: Public dollars: I will be an education-oriented governor, and I am committed to improving all of Maryland's public schools so that there is not a disparity in the quality of education between private and public education. That said, I have committed to maintaining the BOOST program, so long as funding is used specifically for those students who would not be able to otherwise attend the school.

Q3: Education scholarships: My funding priority will be the state's public schools. I believe support for private schools should be limited and strategic.

Q4: BOOST: I am on record in support of doubling the BOOST program to support families in need.

Q5: Capital dollars: Investment in our public schools will be the priority. I am willing to explore on a case-by-case basis the state providing support to ensure that all Maryland students can learn in a safe environment.

Douglas F. Gansler (D)

Q1: Nonpublic school aid: I support both robust investment in public schools as well as support for non-public schools, particularly in the areas of security, mental health professionals, and tuition assistance so that parents are empowered to send children to the school of their choice. Furthermore, as a Jewish man, I recognize and respect that some parents want to send their children to religious schools.

Q2: Public dollars: I think the sentence "public dollars are only for public schools" is loaded and suggests a zero sum game that pits private and public schools against each other. Maryland is sitting on an unprecedented surplus. I support the Blueprint's once-in-a-generation opportunity to make historic investments in our public schools, and I will work hard to implement it. I also believe that we should expand educational opportunities at non-profit and religious schools so that parents are empowered to choose the school that is right for their child.

Q3: Education scholarships: I support the use of tax dollars to empower parents to choose the right school for their child. However, Maryland should ensure that the schools who benefit from this support are held accountable to inclusive and non-discriminatory environments.

Q4: BOOST: I support increasing funding for BOOST to empower low-income families, including families who want to send their children to a religious school, to be able to afford the school of their choice.

Q5: Capital dollars: My number one priority for all schools is to ensure the safety of the students, educators, support staff and everyone on school grounds. I support allocating state tax dollars for both security and infrastructure upgrades so that all schools are safe learning environments.

Dan Cox (R)

Q1: Nonpublic school aid: I support the dollars following the children by parental choice.

Q4: BOOST: And I would expand this program.
